

All Not Happy

Dear Editor:

Perhaps Bill Wilkinson's campaign motto should have been, "I'm not happy until you're all not happy."

Unsure of his future, this past week Mr. Wilkinson, along with Dominick Stanzione, introduced a resolution to accept Federal Aviation Administration money to fix a fence at the airport. What is at stake here is not just fixing a fence, but their leaving a 20-year permanent liability to East Hampton. Once done, no budget hearings or a reduction in town spending will ever be able to undo a pact with the F.A.A.!

Both of them are well aware that the East Hampton electorate have tired of their brand of back-room politics. Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. Stanzione have reached a new low with this 11th-hour attempt to force 20 more years of uncontrolled noise and environmental pollution on the Town of East Hampton.

Candidates in last week's election from both the Independence and Democratic parties called for a slower and reasoned approach to the colossal mess that is the airport. Even though voters quite obviously embraced the common-sense ideas of their opponents, Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. Stanzione are brazenly reminding the town's citizens that they don't care what the public thinks.

It is my understanding that a public hearing has been scheduled for Dec. 1 on this issue. If you care about peace and quiet in the skies over East Hampton, please attend and remind these two shameless individuals that East Hampton cares about its future, its quality of life, and its commitment to the democratic process.
